

Event for Teachers and Environmental Educators

Meetup & Garden Tour KALMIA GARDENS

Saturday, February 11, 2023 • 11am-1pm
1624 West Carolina Ave. • Hartsville, SC

ABOUT THE EVENT

Teachers, environmental educators, and those who communicate about environmental issues are invited to gather for this special networking and professional development event at Kalmia Gardens in Hartsville.

Dan Hill, Kalmia Gardens Director and SC's Environmental Educator of the Year, will lead a garden tour from 11am-noon. Bring a bagged lunch to enjoy during a facilitated networking session from noon-1pm.

Wear comfortable, weather-appropriate clothing and closed toed shoes to navigate stairs, hills, and woodland trails.

ABOUT KALMIA GARDENS

Located in the Pee Dee region on a former plantation, Kalmia Gardens is a 35-acre public botanical garden and historic house open to the public.

Kalmia Gardens boasts a wide array of rhododendrons, camellias, azaleas, tea-olives, dogwood and the Gardens' namesake — Kalmia latifolia, the Mountain Laurel. Kalmia Gardens is part of the scenic S.C. Cotton Trail and is the gateway to the 796-acre Segars-McKinnon Heritage Preserve.

ABOUT EEASC

Environmental Education Association of SC (EEASC) is a professional non-profit organization that connects, supports, and equips educators to promote environmental stewardship.

TO REGISTER:

<https://eeasc.org/event-5119996>

Questions? Contact Executive Director Keith Willoughby at director@eeasc.org.